

Micone v. Micone, 132 Nev. ___, P.3d ___, Adv. Op. 14, March, 3, 2016

#

This is an appeal from a district court order modifying a child custody and support decree to change primary physical custody from the child's mother to the child's grandparents. The grandparents were not parties to the action, and the district court did not notify the parents that the grandparents were being considered as a custodial option. Without joinder of the grandparents, notice to the parents that the grandparents might be awarded custody, and the requisite findings to overcome the parental preference, the district court's order cannot stand. We therefore reverse in part, affirm in part, and remand.